"The rapid increase of Bank Asya during such a crisis that affects global markets has naturally drawn attention. Surely the increase of our paid-up capital from TL 300 million to TL 900 million in July 2008, at a critical time, has played an important role in that success" he said.

Ünal Kabaca stated that after that capital increase, Bank Asya was quite ready to survive the crisis in terms of both its shareholder's equity and liquidity structure. He recorded that Bank Asya has successively sustained its structural readiness later on and accordingly succeeded to maintain its normal loan volume even when ambiguity prevailed in the markets.
